provide health and health-related services to the people of Central Virginia.

In presenting these directories to Sheriff Richardson, Lt. J. L. Hedrick, Appomattox County's representative on the Central Virginia Health Planning Council, indicated that it is the Council's desire to have a directory in every county car in Central Virginia. The directory has been prepared by the Central Virginia Planning Council, Inc., the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency for Planning District XI. Planning District XI includes Amherst, Appomattox, Bedford, and Campbell Counties and the Cities of Bedford and Lynchburg.

The directory is updated annually and is widely distributed throughout the area. The publication cost for the directory is met from the general operating funds of the Health Planning Council. The Council receives fifty percent of its operating funds from the four counties and two cities comprising Planning District XI. A matching grant from the State Health Department's Division of Comprehensive Health Planning provides the remainder of the Council's operating funds.

Program will be explained by Gladys O'Donnell, national coordinator of the program.

OAKVILLE RURITAN NEWS

At its regular monthly meeting, the Oakville Ruritan Club had as its guest speaker, Mrs. Virginia Babcock, Supervisor of the Probation Office for the Fifth Regional Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court.

Mrs. Babcock spoke on the 'Battered Child Syndrome' emphasizing the child abuse is not a new problem, but an old one which is currently receiving widespread public attention. She said that child abuse touches all areas of society and is not confined to any specific level. Her message was highly informative and generated much discussion.

EYE BANK AIDS GLAUCOMA RESEARCH

Richmond - Research into the causes and cure of glaucoma will be aided by a research grant of $5,000 from Old Dominion Eye Bank, and Research Eye Bank, an organization entirely supported by the lions Clubs of Virginia.

The grant, announced by R. Kenneth Hudgins, the eye bank's Executive Director, is one of several made by the eye bank over the past few years to a research project conducted by Dr. Walter J. Geeraets at the medical College of Virginia, Virginia Commonwealth University.

Hudgins stated that the eye bank has provided all of the funds required for the project conducted by Dr. Geeraets. This year's grant, he said, will be used for the purchase of much - needed equipment for electron miscroscopic work planned for the project.

The principal activity of the eye bank, Hudgins stated, is the solocitation, collection, and distribution of human eye tissue provided on death by eye donors and used for sight-restoring corneal transplant operations.

Lions Club members throughout the state are actively engaged in appealing to their fellow citizens to join in the humanitarian eye donor program.

Hudgins said that those who wish to donate their eyes, on death, for this purpose may get pledge cards from any member of a Lions Club.

Tips For Driving In Fog

Richmond, Va. – Driving in fog can be one of the most nerve-wracking experiences when behind the wheel of a car, according to John T. Hanna, director, Highway Safety Division of Virginia.

"Fog, many times called the curtain that kills, is a menace to safe driving habits because of its unpredictability," Hanna said.

Offering tips for driving on highways shrouded in patches of fog, the safety official cited the importance of slow speeds for maximum vehicle control.

"Put headlights on low beam to reduce blinding glare reflected by fog from your own lights," Hanna continued. "Flick to high beam occasionally to warn oncoming vehicles."

He also said that windshield wipers and the defroster fan are vital visual assets when groping through thick patches of fog.

If fog deepens, it may be necessary to pull off the road, but keep parking lights and emergency flashers on, Hanna added.
